Community Update

Mayors Message:

Well it has been a whirlwind. There are so many things taking place in Madison County and the City of Rexburg that it boggles the imagination. I am excited to live in these times and yet frightened too. We can look to our Nation with consternation and the whole world in general. We can see changes coming beyond our control, yet within our Madison County and Rexburg area we can have a "heard voice," concerning our future and our children's future.

As a community we have been involved recently in the Envision Madison process and have just completed the first part of it. I am excited with the thought that many voices were heard from. I am pleased to know that we can help shape our future. We can have a say in what is to come for our locale. If we don't take an active part in making our voices heard, then only we ourselves are to blame.

The Envision Madison process is democracy in action with all people having an opportunity to contribute and decide. Because Envision Madison is governed by a local group of concerned community members we can be assured that process protects property rights and assures us an unbiased or outside influence on our future. The Envision Madison Executive Board looked for a method that would be fair and open to shape the future.

We encourage your participation in future events. We will be looking for your continued input throughout the summer as we prepare for town hall meetings at the end of September. Look for more information in our local papers, or on the Envision Madison website: www.envisionmadison.com, while there please participate in a short survey. Your input is valued, if you have ideas please email Envision Madison at:
